This event is the result of the COOPilot project, a one-year project run from April 2017 to March 2018, by Pour la Solidarité (For Solidarity - Belgium), involving 11 other partner organizations established in 9 EU countries. The project aims to find innovative responses for the employment problem of young people in the European Union by stimulating cooperative entrepreneurship through education and training. In this respect, the project intends to facilitate the transfer of skills and knowledge regarding cooperatives from the more advanced countries (Belgium, France, Italy and Spain) to the less advanced countries (Slovenia, Romania, Bulgaria, Greece and Cyprus). The originality of this project consists in gathering teachers / academics, students, young men and women, representatives of public institutions, representatives of the cooperative sector and of NGOs with relevant activities in the field. For more information, please contact our project partners <http://www.coopilot-project.eu>.
